Come and visit the Eugene Masonic Cemetery

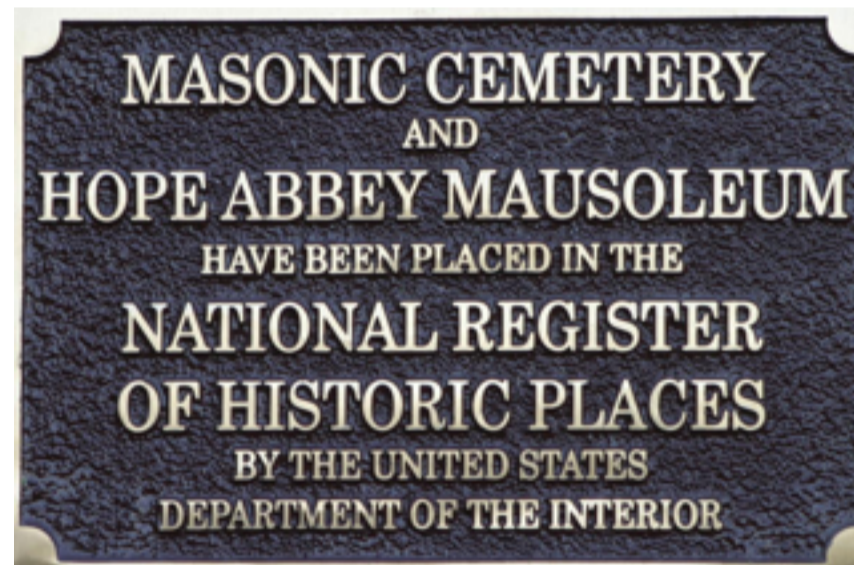

This weekend will be a wonderful time to stroll through the well kept grounds of the cemetery. We're working on some projects to enhance the information about the trees and shrubs to go along with our new status as an arboretum. The weather should be cool but dry, perfect for a visit to work off some of the calories from the turkey and stuffing.

The Eugene Masonic Cemetery is located in Southeast Eugene with the main entrance at E 25th Ave and University St., about 3/4 of a mile south of the old McArthur Court on the UO campus. There is no parking on the cemetery grounds, so please park near the main gate, or on Potter near E 26th Ave., and walk in.

The cemetery covers about 10 acres of heavily wooded land and has some moderate hills covered with well maintained walking paths. There is a small wooden building partway up the hill from the main gate that has a literature dispenser. One of the free items is a "Walking Guide" which has a map of the cemetery as well as a list of many of the people featured in the article mentioned below.

—Full of Life—

The History and Character of Eugene's Masonic Cemetery
Something worth reading one month at a time.

Last month we started a serial presentation of the publication "Full of Life," a short book on the history and background of the Eugene Masonic Cemetery. A link to the monthly chapter appears below.

This book was the product of much research of historic documents available to the several authors.

Because of the size of the print in the original book, it's suggested that you read these chapters on a laptop or large computer screen.

I'm sure that if you've lived in or around Eugene for any length of time, you'll recognize many of the names in the next chapter. Here's your chance to see what's behind those names.

Click on the the chapter title to access this month's chapter.
